Resistencia, the City of Sculptures

Suddenly, in a common place, you meet art, you touch it, you feel it, you live it and you are amazed...

America is a continent of great sculptors, and a scene of a cultural identity, which locates art in natural places, along with daily life in the city.

Argentina, even though its different accents, is not an exception. There we find Chaco, a paradigmatic example of this new conception. And in this land, we find Resistencia, its capital city, showing its peculiar spirit to express the language of arts.

Resistencia, The City of Sculptures, is the capital of the Province of Chaco, located in the north of the Argentine Republic. Its outdoors areas offer the generosity of abundant vegetation, and its art, available to all.

As a magic scenario, more than 580 sculptures are shown to the spirit, whose prestigious authors were once brought together to build up this unprecedented Cultural Heritage, which turns the city into a modern and peerless outdoors museum.

Resistencia, the city of the sculptures, is a phenomenon. Not only because the sculptures on its streets, parks or boulevards, but also for its sculptures with and for its people, as a visual continuation of the urban landscape and a creative impression which encourages sensitivity and stimulates imagination.

Since 1998, UNESCO follows these activities and the process to declare Resistencia "World Cultural Heritage" has begun.

The City of Resistencia was declared National Capital of the Sculptures by the Congress of the Nation, October 2006 – Law 26.157.

In September 2010, The Legislature of the Province of Chaco approved by law the creation of a Committee for the City of Resistencia "The City of Sculptures" with a view to organize activities in order to work on the required international protocols to declare the city "World Cultural Heritage" by UNESCO- Law 6.624.

In October 2010, the Mercosur Parliament, declared "Resistencia: Mercosur Capital City of Sculptures" MERCOSUR/PM/SO/DECL. 10/2010.
